Description

This restored traditional Irish thatched cottage and out-houses were built over a 300 year period. Set in the hills of Donegal and surrounded by trees. The cottage has been restored retaining it's original features, but unlike the original it has modern heating, washing and cooking facilities blended into its original design. It is furnished with period and antique furniture.

In order to keep the cottage in good repair for future generations it is rented as a self-catering holiday home. It is an ideal location for hill walking, touring, pony trekking, fishing or just getting away from it all. This area has some of the most beautiful and unspoiled beaches in Ireland and of course many pubs with Irish music. A quiet spot to relax.
