Description

A unique, well maintained, historical building, possibly built originally for the harbour master, and is said to be well over 100 years old. It occupies a prime position overlooking the pier at Malin Head, with excellent views over the harbour and beach, and out to sea, as far as Inishtrahull Island. The holiday property itself, occupies the upper floor of the building, with access from the outside by ascending a staircase to the main door, or another staircase via the elevated deck area.
